Celebrating Manufacturing in Yankton:

10th Annual Manufacturing Week & Manufacturing Olympics

We are excited to kick off the 10th Annual Manufacturing Week and Manufacturing Olympics, celebrating the essential role of manufacturing in our community. Yankton boasts a diverse manufacturing sector that significantly boosts our local economy and creates job opportunities.

A heartfelt thank you to our 2024 sponsors for their generous support, which makes these events possible. Their commitment to our manufacturers and the Yankton community highlights the talent and hard work driving our economy forward.

Stay tuned for more details about public tours as we celebrate our local manufacturers!

To kick off the 2024 Manufacturing Week, Yankton High School students toured local manufacturers. This initiative is important for fostering interest in manufacturing careers, as it allows students to see firsthand the innovations and technologies driving our local economy while simultaneously helping to inspire the next generation of skilled workers in Yankton. YHS Students toured: Truxedo, Vishay, Empire Products, Wilson Trailers, Applied Engineering, Astec, and Hydro.

Last week, we kicked off the first Leadership 2.0 session, diving into various leadership styles!

Participants engaged in insightful discussions, reflecting on their own approaches and sharing experiences. This program will continue monthly and conclude in May, offering ongoing opportunities for growth and collaboration.

We're excited for what's to come!

Session 2 of Yankton 101 gave participants a comprehensive look at the local educational landscape. The day began at Mount Marty University with presentations by Dr. Wayne Kindle, Superintendent of Yankton School District, and Dr. Marc Long, President of Mount Marty University. Participants toured the MMU campus with Barb Rezac and visited the Monastery with Sr. Marielle.

The afternoon moved to the RTEC Building, where Yankton High School Principal Todd Dvoracek and Sacred Heart School Principal Laura Haberman shared insights on their schools. The session wrapped up with a tour of the CMTEA/RTEC Building, led by Denise Kneifl, highlighting Yankton's hands-on learning opportunities.

Yankton Thrive teamed up with Yankton service clubs and community members to hear from Dr. Wayne Kindle of the Yankton School District and Dr. Marc Long from Mount Marty University.

Dr. Kindle and Dr. Long shared valuable insights on rising enrollment, enhanced safety measures, and future plans for the state of education in Yankton.

We are so fortunate to have outstanding educational resources in Yankton!

A special thank you to Mount Marty University for hosting us!
